

Knox, Lee A

Lee Knox is one of SRM's shining stars. He has an enthusiasm that is infectious. His leadership skills have been recognized by the Texas Section and his employer, the Natural Resources Conservation Service. Lee has been active on numerous Texas Section committees, and is currently serving as chair of the Youth Activities Committee. This committee is responsible for the annual Youth Range Workshop. He was selected to be a watershed manager for the NRCS Conservation Security Program. In this role he had a positive impact on the other CSP watersheds in the San Angelo Zone. Lee came to NRCS from Texas Cooperative Extension. TCE honored him in 2002 with its District 10 Outstanding Young Agent Award.

Lee earned his bachelor degree in Rangeland Management from Texas A&M University in 1996. That same year he was selected by the professors of the department to receive the Leadership Award, their most prestigious student award. He earned his Master's degree in range management from New Mexico State University. At the 1998 Annual Meetings in Guadalajara, Mexico, Lee won the Graduate Student Paper Contest while presenting the results of his master's thesis.

Lee's enthusiasm for and dedication to rangeland management and SRM makes him a shining example for other young professionals. He will be a leader at the section and society level for many years. It's this level of commitment and dedication that make him deserving to be recognized as one of 2006's Outstanding Young Range Professionals.
